HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER
HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha, so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent heretofore considered the best in use.

Jefferson Davis at Home

It is true that the magnanimity of [illegible] refrained from [illegible] of convicting him [illegible] with constitutional requirements. But all was in that cause its fullest measure [illegible] still stands. The Government [illegible] with the most liberal [illegible] cheerfully giving them their broad [illegible] not effect. And in like spirit the people acquiesced. No serious complaint was [illegible] Among the masses of loyal men there was rather a positive satisfaction [illegible] stepping stones for the [illegible] passing of Court.

But it is not to be imagined that this laxity towards Davis betokens any recognition [illegible] of the crime which he committed. It has not been forgotten, nor will it be that this man did his worst to be the parricide of the country which had loaded him with honor and blessing—that, to this end, he consented to be the head and front of a [illegible] which waged fierce war [illegible] than twelve hundred thousand [illegible] men to bloody graves and filling the land with the wails of widows and orphans. That pile of crime stands as it did, unpunished [illegible] though its author [illegible] himself in obscurity. The more aggravated the offence the more signal the clemency. We are ready to say with the King in Hamlet, "Whereto serves mercy but to confront the visage of offence?" Our treatment has been pure grace [illegible] magnanimity. [illegible] its impressive [illegible] by the fact that [illegible] never once shown a single mark of [illegible] or of gratitude. This adds as much to our glory as it loses to the shame of the culprit. In all its aspects it is a splendid example that we have given the world. Resistless and yet moderate—firm as adamant in the struggle and yet [illegible] the example will long stand as the crowning proof of what self government can do for a people.

The Cost of an Election

HOW FINANCIAL MATTERS ARE [illegible] TAMMANY.

From the N. Y. Evening Post, Nov. [illegible]

The Sun this morning prints some curious statements concerning the cost of carrying the late elections to the members of the Tammany Ring. It is a notorious fact that the clerks and others in the city offices are annually taxed to the amount of fully one-third of their incomes for the purpose of keeping up the political organizations and defraying the expenses of carrying the elections. [illegible] honors at the following rates [illegible] costly to say the least.

The Sun asserts that:

The late election [illegible] over nine hundred thousand dollars [illegible] grand torchlight procession [illegible] and twenty thousand dollars. Mayor Hall contributed twenty per cent. [illegible] Eight candidates [illegible] each. All the [illegible] under the control of the Ring were taxed twenty per cent. [illegible] The senatorial candidates [illegible] $28,000 each, with the exception of the Hon. William M. Tweed, who [illegible] $60,000. The Coroner dropped [illegible] the political purse, and the three hundred and thirty-seven election districts [illegible] cost the Tammany [illegible] from $15 to $20 a district. Mozart expended [illegible]

The Democratic [illegible] that [illegible] Democratic [illegible] and found that [illegible] night voting [illegible] canvassers [illegible] hereafter.

In addition to this it may [illegible] Jacob Cohen [illegible] $30,000 and the canvasser returned [illegible] a trifle over three thousand [illegible] instance [illegible] comptrollers [illegible] working for three months he was [illegible]

MISCELLANEOUS

A nugget [illegible] has recently been found [illegible]

The Columbia [illegible] says that Mr. Calhoun [illegible] flag of State rights has gone down, the South must upraise [illegible] energetically gather that material strength of which political power is the logical sequence.

An Eastern paper, speaking of the fact that Jeff. Davis has been elected President of an Insurance company and has settled down for the rest of his life in Memphis, says: He has swung round a very large circle to reach his position, [illegible] and he has few enemies who will care to disturb him, [illegible] though Mr. E. A. Pollard is shouting fiercely that he must quit the country.

Olive Logan was asked by an impudent wag the other day if it was true, as the papers report, that she wore fifteen hundred dollars on her head in the shape of hair. "Quite true," replied the gentle Olive, "and it is also true that I wear twenty thousand dollars in my mouth in the shape of teeth, and a half million dollars in the shape of tongue, to say nothing of the billion or two of dollars in the shape of eyes, ears and such small deer. And to tell the truth, I wouldn't sell out even at those figures."

A late Washington dispatch says: Prof. Raymond, Commissioner of Mining and Mining Statistics, has returned from his summer tour in California, Nevada and Colorado. His annual report is in preparation, but will not be out for some months. He has laid before the Secretary of the Treasury a letter in the nature of a preliminary report, which will shortly be given to the public. The report proper will be a large document, and will show that the yield of gold and silver bullion for the year is about [illegible] less than that of last year.

The New York Herald says: [illegible] fixed in his policy of equal civil and political rights without distinction of race or color [illegible] fixed as the world. The mind and the policy of General Grant are fixed upon this subject, and such being the case we may regard his ideas as fixed in the government of the United States [illegible] looking at this fixed fact and at the consummation of Southern reconstruction, our leading [illegible] politicians are called up to face the music. They cannot go back now; they cannot stand still. They must fall in line with the new forward movement of the Southern Democracy or go to pieces.

One hundred and ten years ago an advertisement in a newspaper informed citizens of Philadelphia that they could go to New York by the Philadelphia Stage Wagon and New York Stage Boat, which performed their Stages twice a Week. The advertisement read: John Butler [illegible] Mondays from his House at the sign of the Death of the Fox [illegible] Ferry, and drives the same day to [illegible] Ferry, when Francis Holman meets him and proceeds on Tuesday to Brunswick, and [illegible] he takes them to the New [illegible] Stage [illegible] the same day when Rubin Fitzrandolph, with a boat well [illegible] to receive them and take them to New York [illegible] And [illegible] was assured [illegible] he would be taken back [illegible] Philadelphia with the same expedition as above.

The [illegible] Idaho Independent says: [illegible] Owens [illegible] have been working some time on what is called the Moore Ditch. It takes the water from [illegible] creek and conveys it to Rocker City and [illegible] nearly twenty-five miles [illegible] and will cost about $[illegible],000.

[illegible] the Union and Central Pacific Railroad [illegible] belief that no material hindrance [illegible] on the tracks need be apprehended [illegible] the future. The experience of last winter and the preparations which that experience has suggested, they hold will prove ample [illegible]

A [illegible] proposes to promote the national prosperity by furnishing free passage to any persons in Europe who wish to make their homes in this country. To do this he calls on Congress to appropriate $20,000,000 a year for five years for the employment of suitable steam vessels, to be commanded by competent officers.

The Yreka Journal thus notices an imposition that is becoming too common: The State Board of Examination have adopted new text books for schools called the Monteith series. This is another dodge to bleed parents of their cash for the new books, which are in no essential respect superior to Cornell's series, which they supersede.

The Owyhee Tidal Wave says: The Golden Chariot Company, and perhaps others, yesterday adopted a coin basis for doing business. They are paying off in coin and have changed the price of miners' wages from $5 currency to $4 50 coin, which they propose to adhere to for the winter. Supposing greenbacks to be worth 80 cents coin, this leaves the wages unchanged, but should they only be worth 75 it adds 25 cents to each day's work.

The terrible and fatal fire which broke out in the Gold Hill mines on the [illegible] of April last, and which resulted in the destruction of a large number of lives, is still smouldering. After it had been reduced to close quarters it was carefully walled in and work was again started in different directions around it. It was thought to have been extinguished long ago, but such, it appears, is not the case, for a few days since some miners working between the 600 and 700 foot levels of the Kentuck mine suddenly picked through into a space where there was plenty of fire, finding large brands of it. The place was at once closed up again.

OREGON.

B. F. Dowell of the Jacksonville Sentinel has again started for Washington. Dowell is not going to give up his [illegible] claims.

The Corvallis Mercury tries to get up a reputation by such statements as this, viz.: "The OREGONIAN says the editor of this paper is going to hell." The OREGONIAN says nothing of the kind. It has better employment than that of troubling itself about the haunts of the editor of the Mercury.

The Jacksonville Sentinel of Saturday last contains an article relative to the communication of Simon [illegible] which recently appeared in the OREGONIAN, and says the article, when it was presented to the Sentinel, contained some [illegible] statements that were expunged before it was sent to the OREGONIAN, and that it was because of said erroneous statements that its publication in the Sentinel was refused.

The Statesman thus epitomizes one of the Herald's column leaders: Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger, has been buying up some noted horses, and makes the Herald pictured—for the only pretense—that it has discovered a mare's nest. Grant wrote a letter to Bonner. Bonner likes horse flesh and buys fast horses. Grant likes horse flesh but can't spend as much on any as Bonner, and therefore the Herald thinks its readers are all as green as grass. Well, suppose they are; what are you going to do about it?

From the Statesman: Articles have been filed in the office of the Secretary of State incorporating a Commercial Hotel Association, signed by John P. Miller, M. Hirsch, F. [illegible], G. P. Holman and J. G. Wright. The capital stock is fixed at $40,000, three-fourths of which is already secured. We are informed that the amount necessary will be forthcoming and the hotel will certainly be built. Application has been made to the City Council to have the dirt of the cellar removed at city expense and used for city grading. If this is done the work will commence at an early day.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel: A young man by the name of Wetzel, who has been working in the tin trade for some time past, at this place, was seized with a strange fit of hallucination last Thursday night. He fancied he was wedded to the handsome and accomplished daughter of a respected citizen of this place and insisted on sending the old gentleman out on the Ranch and keeping hotel himself for a while. The old gentleman couldn't see it in that light and as the infatuated young man persisted in taking possession of the establishment by force, the [illegible] Marshal was called in and he was taken to the calaboose.

ANOTHER FEEDER FOR THE UNION PACIFIC.—The lines of railroad which are to act as feeders for the Union Pacific are making [illegible] progress in Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and [illegible] One of them—called the St. Joseph and Denver City Railway—is in a [illegible] hopeful state of advancement. It [illegible] advantage of following a natural route from the Missouri river to the Rocky Mountains, which has been used by tens of thousands for ox and mule trains since the opening of overland travel to California in 1849. St. Joseph was the first and for many years the most important of the outfitting places for travel on the Plains. The St. Joseph and Denver road pursues very nearly the old route taken by wagons [illegible] to Fort Kearney, where it joins the Union Pacific. It will naturally receive a good share of the traffic seeking the Union Pacific from Missouri, as well as from [illegible] east of the Mississippi and below the latitude of Quincy, Illinois, which is opposite the terminus of the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad. The latter road, and the St. Joseph and St. Louis Railroad, as well as [illegible] Missouri river traffic, will contribute to the business of the St. Joseph and Denver road, as any one can see by a look at the map. The road is now in the market with a million and a half of first mortgage bonds.

A Suggestive Message

The President's message is brimming full of good points. It will bear studying. The reader will hardly be able to take it all in at a single perusal. It touches upon every topic now before the country, and its suggestions are characterized by pith and point. Unlike the messages of Grant's immediate predecessor, it is not a diatribe against a majority of the American people.

At the outset we have an allusion to the condition of Georgia, and some very wholesome recommendations regarding the course which should now be pursued to cure the reactionary rebel element of their usurping conduct and mad folly. We may look for these suggestions to be carried out by Congress.

The President's views and statements on financial affairs render it certain that no attempt will be made by the administration to force resumption of specie payments. He understands that this would be a proceeding which the debtor class could not stand. The policy of his administration will be to improve the credit of the country as fast as possible, and keep on in a course which will surely bring resumption by a gradual process. This policy is plain, and at the same time it is the only one that is practicable.

One of the suggestions made by the President in connection with revenue affairs is that the law allowing a portion of fines and forfeitures to officers of the Government or to informers should be repealed. This is a good suggestion, and should be so acted upon by Congress that this feature of the revenue laws which is generally regarded as odious may be removed.

Again, it is recommended that the income tax, now about to expire by limitation of law, should be renewed, but at a lower rate, say three per cent. instead of five. This tax is one that falls mainly on realized wealth, and the exemption of $1,000 brings it almost exclusively upon those who are able to bear its burdens. It is a discriminating tax, it is true; that is, it does not fall equally on all classes in proportion to their means, and in this respect it stands as a refutation of the demagogical assertion so often made, that under our system the poor are unjustly taxed and the rich allowed to escape. This tax ought to be a popular one, since it is a tax which many vote and few pay.

We have in the message a full statement of the case respecting the Spanish gunboats detained by our Government. They are detained on complaint of Peruvian officials. Similar cases have frequently occurred in the practice of civilized nations, the gist of the matter being that no power, if it acts in good faith, will allow warlike expeditions to be fitted out in its ports for operations against another power with which it is at peace.

The announcement relative to the survey for the Darien canal leads to the belief that something like a purpose will show itself on that isthmus, shortly, in the construction of a canal which, in importance to the world, will dwarf all previous enterprises of this enterprising age.

The Alabama claims have not been forgotten, and President Grant gives utterance to the deep and abiding feeling of indignation in the national mind when he says that the course pursued by Great Britain during our civil war resulted in vastly increasing its cost both in lives and treasure, and is an injury of too deep a nature to be satisfied after the manner of ordinary commercial claims.

The Canadians want reciprocity, but President Grant hopes they will not obtain it. It would be that species of reciprocity which gives one side all the benefit; and looking to the interests of our own people the President can see no reason why the wish of the people of the British Provinces should be granted.

In his discussion of foreign matters in general, the President expresses a hope that Congress will enact such laws as will prevent the importation of Chinese into this country under the so-called coolie system. The bill just introduced by Senator Williams will, in all probability, be enacted; the President will approve it, and, as he is known to be in favor of executing the laws, he will enforce this one against the Southern Democracy who are so anxious to get labor at pauper rates to supply the place of the labor they used to get for nothing.

Regarding the Indians, the President advocates the policy of placing them on large reservations and introducing them gradually to the arts of civilized life. It is quite evident that with civilization spreading across the continent, we cannot hereafter submit to the roaming and reckless habits hitherto permitted to the Indian tribes. The only method would seem to be to rigidly confine the Indians to a few localities.

The topics touched upon in the message are very numerous, and it is a document which may be referred to very often with advantage.

A Mythical Decision.

We called upon the Herald to publish that Internal Revenue decision which it said was "confirmed by its Eastern exchanges." It does not comply. It confesses in substance that it is not able to do so, and therefore it stands convicted of intentionally publishing an untrue statement. And now we assert that no such decision as that reported here by telegraph last month was ever given. That report was, in all probability, made up from a former decision, and the person who made it up bungled it in such a manner as to entirely pervert the meaning of the original document. We say that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has given no decision which requires farmers who take the products of their farms to market to pay a special tax, and we challenge the Democratic papers of Oregon, one and all, to produce authentic proof that any such ruling has been made. They cannot do it; they never will do it. The Herald has not printed, cannot print, and never will print, any decision signed by the Commissioner sustaining the statement of that telegraphic dispatch. That dispatch was incorrect, it has never been "confirmed" by anybody's Eastern exchanges, and never will be, the statement of the Herald to the contrary notwithstanding. The ruling it incorrectly announced would be violative of former decisions of the Commissioner and directly antagonistic to the plain letter of the law. Section seventy nine of the general Internal Revenue Laws, in defining what persons are required to pay special tax, says: "Every person whose occupation it is to buy and sell agricultural or farm products, and whose annual sales do not exceed ten thousand dollars, shall be regarded as a produce broker." Now the Commissioner has the law for his guide, he cannot go behind its plain provisions and require a tax of those who sell the products of their own farms, when the law expressly states that only those who buy and sell shall be liable to such tax. Therefore it is absurd and false to say, as the Herald does, that no farmer can go to market and sell the products of his own farm without first taking out a license. Again, if such a decision had been given by the Commissioner as that claimed by the Herald, why has not the Internal Revenue office here been apprised of it? The telegram on which this whole controversy is founded is now four weeks old. The daily mails from Washington reach here regularly in fourteen days. Every decision made by the Commissioner is forwarded immediately to every Assessor and Collector in the United States for their instruction and guidance; yet no decision like that which is making all this pother in Oregon, has been received by those officers here. On the contrary, they have rulings from the Commissioner in repeated instances in which the opposite doctrine is laid down. Then they have besides the direct letter of the law which instructs them that they only are produce brokers "whose occupation it is to buy and sell farm products," and therefore that the farmer who takes the products of his own farm to market is not to pay any tax at all. We trust we have now made this matter entirely plain. No controversy could ever have arisen about it had it not been for the unscrupulous conduct of the Democratic papers of Oregon in snatching up an absurd telegram, in attempting to make it a "great party issue," and in pretending, regardless of truth, that the statement made by it had been "confirmed" by the arrival of the decision itself by course of mail.

One of the Mysteries of Politics

The Olympia Transcript republishes an article that appeared in the OREGONIAN in 1862, in which a speech delivered by Mr. Garfielde at Vancouver was severely condemned, and says that we should either "eat our own words" or stop censuring those Republicans who are making war on Garfielde now. Will the Transcript understand that we do not pretend to defend Mr. Garfielde's record? That we would no more attempt to defend what he did in 1862 than we would attempt to defend Judge Dennison for writing that series of secession letters about the same time? That we consider Garfielde's course then, in that he took sides with the Democrats, almost as indefensible as the course of Gov. Flanders in taking sides with the Democrats now, and laboring with them to secure their triumph in the next election? Mr. Garfielde's record is very objectionable to us, but it is quite as good as that of any man who is leading the bolters' movement in Washington Territory. It is one of the wonders of politics that Flanders and Denny thought that Garfielde was a good enough Republican to go with them among the people and expound Republican principles for them when they were unable to do it for themselves, but that they think he is not a good enough Republican to fill the same position to which his stirring Republican speeches elected them.

In General

The Oakland (Cal.) Transcript, which recently changed its politics and became a Democratic paper, is "afraid that the Fifteenth Amendment is a foregone conclusion." We trust that even the benighted editors of that party in Oregon will eventually find out the same thing.

Opposition editors were wont to tell us that the Government was squandering "hundreds of millions" on the Freedmen's Bureau. Official reports, just published, show that the total expenditures of the Bureau from the date of its organization have been just $11,249,028 10, a large part of which came from other sources than the public treasury.

The Chicago Tribune thus indicates its plan for returning to a true form of currency: "Only by an extension of the National Banking system so as to make it one of free banking and specie redemption can the country be supplied with that which it most needs, after reduced taxation, to revive its sinking industries—a sound, well-secured, abundant currency, at par with the currency of the world." This plan would make the issues of the banks redeemable in specie and secure them by deposits of Government bonds.

The recommendation of the President that the Senators and Representatives from Virginia be admitted, and that Congress take such measures as will fully restore that State to its relations with the Government of the Union, completely ignores the action of the extreme Republicans who have invoked aid from the President and Congress to keep the State disorganized because they cannot have their way in ruling it. Virginia has complied in good faith with the reconstruction acts and is entitled to admission.

Grief of the Democratic Press

Albany Democrat has had second spasm over that imaginary revenue decision. Probably in about a year it may learn that all its sweat and agony have been for nothing.

Herald says it "pretends to be a model newspaper." Yes; "pretence" is the word. But such "pretence" can humbug nobody.

La Grande Sentinel mourns because "negroes in Oregon will surely be clothed with right of suffrage," but says it will "exert all its influence to get every negro to vote the Democratic ticket." No doubt of it, but if any negro can be found who is poor spirited enough not to kick out of his presence the Democratic politician who comes to him begging for his vote, such negro is hardly fit yet for the franchise.

Eugene Guard, continues as usual its imprecations and ravings, as cursing organ of the blaspheming Democracy.

WHY PORK SHRINKS IN THE POT.—An old farmer, in the Homestead, answers the above question as follows:

"Hogs kept low in flesh in summer and autumn and then fully fed when shut up for fattening, will gain fast, appear to be doing well and look well when dressed, but will weigh light and boiling will prove the flesh to be puffy. The little cells, of which the meat seems to be composed, are filled with gelatinous matter, which has not had time to become hard and firm—it is partly soluble in boiling water, hence pork shrinks in the pot. The same kind of pork results from feeding mostly on animal food, as at slaughter houses, and from irregular feeding, or from killing sows when in heat.

To produce pork that will not shrink in the pot, the writer says he first has a good breed; they are never allowed to fall off in good condition from the start they get from their mother's milk, or never know stint or stunt while alive. Early in autumn he takes them up in high order and begins to fatten them, increasing their rations of grain till they are fat and ready to kill. Then he feeds them one week more and makes due preparation for butchering, which is done early in the day by good hands. When thoroughly cooled, cuts up and salts down (not allowing his pork to freeze) using plenty of the best salt, and filling up the barrels with brine and not with water as some do. This method secures pork white, firm, compact, and almost as solid as marble, which when well cooked, will be tender, juicy, melting and delicious, never shrinking in the pot."

The Albany Argus suggests that the Cardiff giant was one of Artemus Ward's wax figgers. He lost one at Utica.

A New Race of Southern Statesmen

We refer elsewhere briefly to a letter written by John W. Johnston, one of the Senators elect from Virginia. If it had been a reactionary speech from Jeff Davis or General Lee, its appearance in the Democratic papers hereabouts would have been a matter of certainty, and it would have been eagerly perused by the "faithful." We print the letter for the benefit of the Oregon Democracy to show them the views of the Southern wing of their party. If they can stand this sort of thing much longer without symptoms of wakefulness we shall give up all hopes of rousing them from their slumbers.

ABINGDON, November 17, 1869.

To His Excellency Gilbert C. Walker:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of my credentials as United States Senator from Virginia.

When the war ended it was not only a matter of necessity, but of practical wisdom, that the Southern States should regain their places in the Union at the earliest possible day. That they could prosper in the anomalous condition in which they were placed was impossible. The uncertainty of the future repressed enterprise and deadened industry. A settled State Constitution and defined relations to the General Government were as essential to the complete progress and just and well being of these States. Believing fully not only that we in Virginia should not prosper but that our continued exclusion from the Union interfered with the business of the whole country, I have been anxious for an early compliance with the reconstruction laws, and that the State should itself inaugurate some movement similar to that which resulted in your election for the purpose, and not wait, like Micawber, for "something to turn up."

The questions at issue between the North and South were settled, and settled forever by the war. Slavery was extinct, and nobody wanted it revived on any terms. The claim to the right of secession was abandoned, and it is not only not probable, but not possible that it can be again asserted, for the State of Virginia, by a vote almost unanimous, has adopted a constitution which declares—

"That this State shall ever remain a member of the United States of America, and that the people thereof are a part of the American nation, and that all attempts from whatever source or upon whatever pretext, to dissolve said Union or to sever said nation, are unauthorized and ought to be resisted with the whole power of the State."

The fifteenth amendment, which I trust will soon be adopted by States enough to make it a part of the Constitution of the United States, will end a question which has agitated the country for half a century. I entirely approve of the principles of that amendment, and as we have invested the freedmen with the right to vote, let us give him a fair opportunity to vote understandingly. He has civil rights, and it is to our interest that he should know their value.

No questions are now so important to the whole country as those connected with the national debt and national finances. The repudiation of the national debt would be the destruction of the Government. Exact and complete good faith should be observed with the public creditor. All the obligations of the Government should be strictly fulfilled. Nor is this so hard to do. The public debt, which, to the impoverished South, looked a little while back so stupendous, is already assuming comparatively trifling dimensions. It is seen that it can be easily paid. The spectacle is now exhibited of immigrants coming to this country, both from the continents of Europe and Asia, at a rate not much less than a half million a year. Most of these bring capital or labor, and some of them both. Our population, besides, is increasing with great rapidity; every mile of railroad that is built, every acre of forest that is cleared or swamp land reclaimed, every mine that is opened or manufactory erected, adds to our resources and increases our capacity to pay the public debt, whether State or National. The present financial policy of the General Government is diminishing our expenses, and the only things to be considered now are how to pay the debt soonest, and in the manner least burdensome to the people.

That we are approaching apparently so near to the consummation of reconstruction we are greatly indebted to the kind offices of President Grant. This State was in a dilemma; it wanted a constitution, but the one made for it had at least two very objectionable features. We felt that we were suffering in all our material interests by staying out of the Union, and yet to go in under the new constitution, with all its provisions, would have been worse.

This Gordian knot was happily cut by the President's first message to Congress and the prompt response of that body. Up to this time the conduct of the Administration has been liberal, and if the same policy is pursued hereafter it ought to have the hearty support of this State.

If we cast dead issues behind us, and look to that line of conduct which shall restore quiet and confidence, and encourage enterprise and industry, we shall soon see the country richer and more prosperous than it has ever been.

Yours, respectfully,

JOHN W. JOHNSON

New Gold Discovery

The La Grande Sentinel has the following in regard to a new discovery of gold, concerning which we have received confirmatory letters:

We have intelligence of a late gold discovery on the divide between Salmon and Weiser rivers, some forty miles north of Warren's Diggings, and in range of the same belt or line of gold running from that and other mining camps in Idaho, to El Dorado, Marmon Basin, &c., in Eastern Oregon. Mr. John McDowell, a gentleman of veracity, and one of the prospectors, states that the discovery was made about the middle of last summer, but until this fall no real prospecting was done. A party of six started for the location about the first of October, and upon their arrival a prospect hole was sunk and $19 taken therefrom. This was sufficient evidence that the ground was rich in the precious metal and the prospectors immediately proceeded to secure water privileges and take up claims. But what was their surprise! In digging a trench across a gulch, fifteen separate and distinct gold and silver bearing quartz ledges were opened up to view, that promise to be valuable property in the hereafter. They are decomposed and it is thought the most of the gold in the gulches was washed down from them years ago. One pan of dirt was taken from the surface which yielded, when washed, twenty five cents in gold and considerable silver. Pyrites of iron is found in great quantities, and owing to its being mixed with the gold, the latter has a very dark appearance when first taken out. One piece of gold was thrown out of the pan, but it being unusually heavy it was picked up again, and on being rubbed it turned bright, yellow and pure—pure we say and pure we mean, for it assayed eighteen dollars and sixty cents per ounce. There are two streams of water near by, which will furnish five hundred inches of water for mining purposes three months in the year. The discovery is not yet generally known, and if it was it could not be reached now for the reason that the season is now too far advanced to admit of the mountains being crossed. At a meeting of the six all claims were laid over until spring. A ditch has been surveyed, but as only two of the party will remain during the winter work will not be done upon it. As the indications are all favorable and the bed rock granite and slate, something startling may be expected from that locality when the snow begins to disappear.

New York Gold Quotations [illegible]

[illegible] DES MOINES, IOWA, [illegible] have the following from a gentleman who is familiar [illegible] had taken a deep interest in the two locomotives [illegible] Ben Holladay for the Oregon Central Railroad. He says:

I have beheld the locomotives "Portland" and "Oregon," [illegible] upon the locomotive of the C. R. I. and P. R. R., [illegible] passed here yesterday on the [illegible] by the Oregon Central Railroad, in the far off Willamette valley. [illegible]

The engines are dismantled, the smoke stacks [illegible] stored in the boxes of the tenders. The piston and [illegible] same place. In appearance the engines are as fine as any upon our C. R. I. & P. [illegible] were built at the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Baltimore [illegible] M. Baird & Co. In mechanical execution, they [illegible] citizens of Portland and Oregon.

I rejoice in the prospective success of your railroad enterprise, and hope that the last rail may soon be laid and the last spike driven connecting Oregon with [illegible] and the East. That should be a golden rail [illegible] of an magnificent golden spike. But enough on this subject; I know that your hearts are full of enthusiasm [illegible] and that you will rejoice to know that two of your [illegible]

The writer here leaves the subject of the [illegible] and indulges in some comparisons between Oregon [illegible] productive soil are at that man can ask. In agricultural area she is among the least of the States, but in [illegible] cultural productions she excels all, in proportion to the numbers of her population. In unbroken area [illegible] the entire sister hood of States. She has [illegible] acre of waste lands. Her summers are [illegible] is those of Oregon, but her severe winters [illegible] hope of winter grain or of [illegible] fruit [illegible] I have traveled over thirty States of the Union [illegible] through the Canadas, Mexico, and Central America [illegible] have concluded, after all, that Iowa and Oregon [illegible] Edens of America. They both have their advantages [illegible] disadvantages, but which is the better, is more than [illegible] can decide.

RUNAWAY AND SMASH UP.—Yesterday morning a [illegible] attached to a light vegetable wagon—from [illegible] out on the macadamized road—ran away on First street [illegible] down Stark, up Front, and came to an inglorious [illegible] a brilliant career, at the corner of Washington [illegible] Front. The horse was not vastly larger than the [illegible] brated "January," and the wagon not much bigger [illegible] the horse; but the two together made splurge enough for a chariot and four. As he shot around the corner [illegible] Stark and Front Dr. Kallenberg and a friend were [illegible] ing leisurely down Front in a one-horse buggy. [illegible] the Doctor saw the affair coming, he must have had [illegible] same impression that Noah's contemporaries had when he wouldn't let them into the Ark: that "It wasn't going to be much of a shower, anyhow," and they didn't [illegible] for he made no apparent effort to get out of the way. In about a twinkling or a trifle over, the [illegible] wheel of the little go-cart locked in with the off [illegible] wheel of the Doctor's buggy. In the [illegible] twinkling, the Doctor's horse and the [illegible] went on, without the buggy, the horse going through every stitch of his gear but the bridle and reins, to the other end of which the Doctor [illegible] was soon stopped principally [illegible] as the Doctor [illegible] the crossing along on his [illegible] and the horse [illegible] never been educated to draw well by the bit. [illegible] and his wagon, and the buggy, with the Doctor [illegible] brought up all standing on the [illegible] after knocking down four of the awning posts [illegible] came tumbling down in the midst [illegible] upon and around the horse, wagon and the [illegible] or a friend. Strangely enough neither of the men [illegible] horses were hurt. The hind wheel of the buggy [illegible] got a kink of about four points to the larboard [illegible] and the little wagon had a foreward wheel [illegible]

A MISTAKE.—We believe the City Council has made [illegible] in refusing to pass the ordinance providing [illegible] of the police force of this city. The city [illegible] never had so many policemen in proportion to population as most of the cities of California and the East [illegible] six police, only three of whom are [illegible] and at the very best a weak force [illegible] of over ten thousand [illegible] ought to [illegible] at least ten. Adding the number of rough characters who are constantly flowing in and out of the city [illegible] and the mines. The [illegible] son and property from the [illegible] of ten or [illegible] more [illegible] would more than [illegible] expenditure. We believe that for [illegible] our police is as vigilant and effective as that of [illegible] city in the west; but the district is one which they [illegible] tight are too large for any six men.

STREET LAMPS.—The Council has done a good thing [illegible] the erection of [illegible] additional [illegible] The contractor is [illegible] to put up posts at the corners of Fourth and Oak, Eighth and Salmon, Front and [illegible] and Morrison and Seventh. All of them are great [illegible] and we might mention many other places where lamps would be a great public convenience. [illegible] it is [illegible] to do it, the city ought to provide lamps [illegible] every street intersection, on alternate [illegible] can get about with some degree of safety. Up to this time, the back [illegible] are situated, have been neglected. The [illegible] is now able to provide lights [illegible] far back [illegible] and it ought to do it.

BARK MARTHA.—The steamship Ajax, which [illegible] from San Francisco last Monday, the 6th inst., [illegible] looked for this evening.

[illegible] Engine Company has [illegible] the Council for a new bell. The boys have got tired of [illegible] old one. Its tones are [illegible] but [illegible] want higher tone.

Two [illegible] loaded with railroad iron are [illegible] above the P. T. Co's wharf.

[illegible] is coming down the Willamette river in the [illegible] The [illegible] every day [illegible] loaded to the guards.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Ross, editor of the Walla Walla [illegible] gave us a call yesterday. He is going on a [illegible] old friends in Washington [illegible]

M. H. Abbott, late local reporter for the [illegible] himself as editor of the Grand [illegible] He purposes to be as sturdily [illegible]

We had the pleasure yesterday of [illegible] quite a number of gentlemen from the interior who are well [illegible] in this city—among whom were Wiley Chapman of [illegible] Mr. Hare of Hillsboro, Capt. M. Crawford of [illegible] hill, and others.

[illegible] STORY.—A California paper has the following, which we regard as a very doubtful story. It does [illegible] honor to Portland, Oregon: "[illegible] by one of the stage robbers, being tried at Los Angeles, revealed the fact that there is an organized band, [illegible] made of laws, grips, signs and passwords, ramifications which extended from Oregon to Arizona and into [illegible] The band was originally organized at Portland, Oregon, and has for months pursued a [illegible] of robbery and murder."

STREET [illegible].—Again about half the street [illegible] tween [illegible] Third street have [illegible] in mud as to render them almost [illegible] nobody has authority to clean them and it is nobody's duty to do it, then the Council should give somebody [illegible] authority and make it [illegible] duty. A little shovel work and a little cleaning of [illegible] would be sufficient to correct the nuisance.

NEW ESTABLISHMENT.—We are requested to call attention to the advertisement of the new crockery store [illegible] Monnastes & Page, just opened at No. 120 [illegible] street, where they offer a splendid assortment of crockery and glassware, plated ware and cutlery, and [illegible] of beautiful holiday [illegible] These young gentlemen claim that they will allow no one in the [illegible] in this city to undersell them.

MASONIC ELECTION.—Portland Chapter No. 3 R. A. Masons elected and installed the following officers for the ensuing year: Jno. McCraken, H. P.; Jno. H. [illegible] K.; J. B. Congle, S.; C. H. Lewis, C. H.; P. O. [illegible] P. S.; H. Sayre, R. A. C.; M. A. King, M. [illegible] B. F. Goodman, M. 2d V.; J. H. Lappeus, M. 1st V.; J. C. Ainsworth, Treasurer; Lucius Wilson, [illegible] F. Backs, Tyler.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—We refer the reader to the advertisement of Messrs. Jackson, Sanderson & Co. [illegible] are just in receipt of a splendid stock of goods for the holidays, beautiful silver sets, glass ware, statuary, etc. We can think of no place in the city where a person could better go for beautiful and rich presents for Christmas and New Year's.

NEW WAREHOUSE AND WHARF.—We learn that [illegible] Kelso and Blinnear are about to build an extensive [illegible] house and wharf adjoining the sawmill at North [illegible] land. They are having the piles driven for the [illegible] The warehouse is to be used particularly [illegible] storing of lumber [illegible] is to be of the same breadth [illegible] the sawmill.

CIRCUIT COURT.—[illegible] Proceedings of Thursday, December 9th.

John [illegible] county of Multnomah [illegible] concluded [illegible] argument began. The entire day consumed in the trial of this case, voluminous [illegible]

LABOR [illegible] At the new [illegible] Messrs. [illegible] twenty seven men are employed and the mill has turned out, during the last [illegible] feet of lumber. Even this quantity [illegible] to those in need [illegible] supply has [illegible] demand [illegible] of the market.

[illegible] The weather yesterday came fairly [illegible] We have searched the dictionary and [illegible] newspaper for objurgatory adjectives [illegible] without finding [illegible] anywhere near doing justice [illegible] the subject.

FOR SOUTH AMERICA.—The [illegible] barkentine A. Heaton [illegible] will [illegible] South America. [illegible] From Buenos [illegible] she will go [illegible] New York.

FUNERAL.—[illegible] E. A. C. Bauch was accompanied to [illegible] yesterday by the 23d Infantry band [illegible] of the German friends of the deceased.

Paul Martin [illegible] will give his farewell performance at Harmony Hall to-morrow evening.

THE LOCOMOTIVES "PORTLAND" AND "OREGON" —We [illegible] the following letter from Des Moines Iowa, November [illegible] written by a gentleman who is familiar with [illegible] deep interest in Oregon in which the writer [illegible] glowing account of the two locomotives now [illegible] from the East to Ben Holladay for the Oregon [illegible]. He says [illegible] you Oregonians in having the first ride [illegible] "Portland and Oregon" which [illegible] day on the C R I and P R R bound [illegible] Central Railroad, in the far off Wallamet [illegible] stood on the cabin of these locomotives as [illegible] under way for their western journey, [illegible] of the glorious country they represent [illegible] influence they will have on the commerce [illegible] of the Wallamet valley. May they have [illegible] to the end of their journey" [illegible] prayer, as I stepped upon the platform and [illegible] from my sight on their way to Omaha [illegible] West. [illegible] are dismantled, the smoke stacks being [illegible] the boxes of the tenders. The piston and con[illegible] are also boxed and safely stored in the [illegible]. In appearance, the engines are as neat and [illegible] upon our C. R I & T R R. They [illegible] the Baldwin Locomotive Works Baltimore [illegible] In mechanical execution, they re[illegible] the builders, and are well worthy the [illegible] "Portland" and "Oregon." [illegible] the prospective success of your railroad en[illegible] hope that the last rail may soon be laid [illegible] driven, connecting Oregon with Cali[illegible] the East. That should be a golden rail instead [illegible] of golden spike. But enough on this sub[illegible] that your hearts are full of enthusiasm, [illegible] will rejoice to know that two of your loco[illegible] accomplished one-third of their jour[illegible] leave the subject of the locomotives [illegible] comparisons between Oregon and [illegible] Oregon has her advantages. Her climate and [illegible] are all that man can ask. The Twiggs Swords

THE FACTS IN RELATION TO THEIR SEIZURE

The arrest of General Butler in New York, at the instance of Miss Rowena Florence, for having, in 1862 appropriated the jeweled swords which had been given her by General Twiggs has attracted so much notice that the publication of the following facts, obtained from the records of Congress, will be interesting by way of explanation. On the 1st of July, 1862, General Butler, in his letter to President Lincoln, accompanying the swords, said, after describing the weapons

"General Twiggs left these swords with a young woman on the evening before he fled from New Orleans, and on his flight on the day of the approach of the fleet, he wrote in his carriage, while en route, this extraordinary paper

"'I leave my swords to Miss Rowena Florence and box of silver. E D TWIGGS'"

"'NEW ORLEANS, April 25 1862'"

"The paper was claimed as a deed of gift of these very valuable weapons by the young woman named, but as she had neglected to inform her father of this singular donation, causa fugæ, and as the girl's mother caused them to be given to a negro, to be sent back to General Twiggs's house, I ventured to interfere with this testamentary deposition."

When Congress assembled, Mr Lincoln sent the following message to the two Houses

"Fellow-citizens of the Senate and House of Representatives

"I have in my possession three valuable swords formerly the property of General David E Twiggs, which I now place at the disposal of Congress. They were forwarded to me from New Orleans, by Major General Benjamin F Butler. If they or any of them, shall be by Congress disposed of in reward or complimentary of military service, I think General Butler is entitled to the first consideration.

"A copy of the General's letter to me accompanying the swords, is herewith transmitted.

"ABRAHAM LINCOLN

"December 12, 1862"

Senator Wilson subsequently introduced a resolution bestowing the sword Congress gave Twiggs to General Butler and donating one to West Point Academy, and the other to the Patent Office. The resolution, however, has never been acted upon.

The subjoined correspondence sufficiently explains itself

MESSRS EVERSON & HAINES General Agents New England Mutual Life Insurance Company Boston

Gentlemen —On my own behalf and in the name of my orphan children, I beg to thank you and through you the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston for its munificence in paying me my terminated policy on the life of my husband. On the 21st January 1869, misfortune compelled me to forego the payment of the last premium—which non payment in any other company would have lost me my policy—but I am now overjoyed with the receipt of the amount of the policy (less the amount of the unpaid premium only) thanks to the equity of the Massachusetts Lapse Laws, that must bless many widows and their children. I recommend the New England Mutual to all who would provide against possible misfortune. I sincerely thank you again gentlemen for the payment, and also for your generous and gentlemanly assistance in the matter.

Respectfully, BETSEY MILLER.

PORTLAND, OREGON Nov 16 1869

MESSRS. EVERSON & HAINES General Agents of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston

Gentlemen —Having taken a lively interest in the affairs of the large and destitute family left by an old resident of this city who died Aug 2, 1869, and who was insured in the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company we take pleasure in making the following statement for the information of the public.

A E G Miller was insured by ordinary Life Policy No. 18 054, bearing date January 21, 1863. He paid annual payments to January 21, 1868, inclusive. Since then nothing has been paid. He died August 2 1869 over eighteen months after last payment of premium yet your company working under the Equitable Lapse Laws of Massachusetts, pays the widow and orphans the whole policy deducting only the premium due; while in all other companies doing business here about which we know anything, the policy would long since have been forfeited.

By the New England Mutual the widow has been paid $4,650 50. This we consider munificent, more especially when we take into consideration that the family would not have received a cent from any other company doing business on this coast. This in our estimation is enough to recommend this company above all others. This is Equity, this is Mutuality. We therefore, commend this company to the public, as the only company that has no forfeitures.

We herewith inclose you the acknowledgments of the widow.

Respectfully yours, etc

Words of Weight for Wives and Mothers

The superiority of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS over all other tonics and correctives as a remedy for dyspepsia biliousness nervous affections and all complaints of the visceral organs and as a preventive of malarious disorders is proverbial but perhaps it is not so generally known that the ingredients of this famous invigorant and alterative exercise a powerful and most beneficial influence in that numerous and distressing class of ailments of which so many thousands of delicate women are the patient uncomplaining victims. The special troubles of the sex commencing with the dawn of womanhood and extending over a period of thirty to thirty five years are as readily and certainly relieved by the operations of this admirable vegetable preparation as any of the complaints common to both sexes for which it is recommended as a specific. The attention of mothers is invited to its balsamic effect in those peculiar cases of functional irregularity and irritation which when neglected or maltreated destroy the health and shorten the lives of so many invalids. There is no need for the powerful and dangerous drugs too often resorted to in such cases. The mild tonic and restorative action of the BITTERS is all the assistance that nature requires in its struggle to overcome the difficulty and a vast amount of suffering will be spared to the sex if they placed implicit faith in this wholesome vegetable invigorant corrective and nervine and discarded the pernicious nostrums advertised by ignorant and mercenary charlatans.

Beautiful in Old Age.

How to be beautiful when old
I can tell you, maiden fair—
Not by lotions, dyes, and pigments
Not by washes for your hair
While you're young be pure and gentle,
Keep your passions well controll'd,
Walk and work, and do your duty,
You'll be handsome when you're old

Snow white locks are fair as golden,
Grey as lovely as the brown,
And the smile of age more pleasant
Than a youthful beauty's frown.
'Tis the soul that shapes the features,
Fires the eye, attunes the voice;
Sweet sixteen! be these your maxims,
When you're sixty you'll rejoice!

The State of San Domingo.

The report comes to us from Washington, —and we suppose it is true,—that recent negotiations have taken place between the Government of the Dominican Republic and that of the United States, with the view of immediate acquisition of the former by the latter, in the same way that we acquired Texas. It may not be out of place to state where this Dominican Republic is, and of what it is composed. It is the eastern portion of the Island of Hayti, which lies almost due east of Cuba. The island contains two republics—Hayti and Dominica—and the latter embraces much the larger portion of the territory, but less than one-fourth of the whole population.

The area of Dominica is about 17,500 square miles, and it has a population of perhaps 150,000, of whom, say, 20,000 are whites, and the others of African or of mixed African and European descent. The interior is mountainous and covered with tropical forests, and the plains extend from the mountains to the coast, and are well watered. The harbor of San Domingo, on the south, and the Bay of Samana are equal to any in the West Indies. The climate is better than that of Cuba, and the soil is fertile. The island, however, has not been, for the last seventy-five years, cultivated with any industry,—the occupation of the people being confined to cattle raising and ebony-cutting. The gold and silver and iron of the mountains have not been mined since the Spanish possession.

The imports to the United States for 1868 were valued—from Hayti, $760,000; from San Domingo, $33,000. Of these the principal articles were raw cotton, sugar, coffee, dye woods, gum arabic, hides, and cocoa. San Domingo is divided into five provinces. There is an army of 20,000 troops of all arms, and a small navy. The language of the people is Spanish, and the religion Roman Catholic. The government is that of a President, with a Congress consisting of two branches. Hayti and Dominica were several times united, but in 1844 were divided by revolution. But the country has been for twenty years in a state of chronic revolution, and the Dominicans have long since concluded that there can be no peace until they are taken under the flag of the United States. For several years they have proposed to cede the Bay of Samana to the United States, and now offer the whole republic.

The other part of the island, which is known as the Republic of Hayti, contains 10,000 square miles and a population of 600,000. The natural conditions of the island might be made productive, but for half a century there has been war between the two parts of the island, or internal wars in each republic, and there has consequently been but little attention to the cultivation of the soil, or any other industrial pursuit. The exports of the United States during the last few years have been less than they were ten years ago. In considering the question of the acquisition of Dominica it is necessary to consider also the probable acquisition of Hayti. The one will follow the other most unquestionably, and the re-establishment of peace would make the whole island a garden of beauty and of productiveness.

School Government.

[From the Chicago Republican.]

The investigation which has just been closed at Bloomington has resulted, as we have already stated, in the vindication of Mrs. Ohr from the charge of cruelty in the management of the Soldiers' Orphans' Home. Among the witnesses were the President of the State Normal University and several of its prominent professors. Their testimony on the subject of corporal punishment is well worthy of consideration by those who are now urging its total abolition in our public schools. Prof. E. C. Hewett testified as follows:

"Have taught nearly twenty years; have been in the Normal eleven years; my opinion is very decided that in many cases corporal punishment is of great benefit; there are many cases which do require corporal punishment; I would much sooner resort to such punishment than expulsion."

Professor Thomas Metcalf testified as follows:

"Have taught school nearly twenty-seven years; I would not be willing to take charge of any school if corporal punishment were forbidden, although it should be the last resort before expulsion; it may seem severe sometimes, yet it may reclaim a child from ruin; corporal punishment is not prohibited entirely in the department of the Model School; I would not take charge of such an institution as this (the Soldiers' Orphans' Home) if corporal punishment were prohibited."

Professor Carter's ideas on corporal punishment may be gathered from the following testimony:

"My judgment is, that at times corporal punishment is absolutely necessary in schools; I think no treatment is so cruel and unkind as that of allowing a child to persist in doing wrong; expulsion should only be a last resort; for the good of the child, punishment should be administered before expulsion; I would never undertake a school where I had not the power of corporal punishment."

President Edwards, of the Normal University, testified as follows regarding corporal punishment:

"I think it is possible for the right man or woman to conduct such an institution as this (the Soldiers' Orphans' Home) without corporal punishment, but in my whole life among my class mates and pupils I know of not more than three or four who, I believe, could conduct it; it requires a kind of personal magnetism, which is very rare indeed; I have an intimate acquaintance with at least 3,000 teachers, and of that whole number I don't know of but three or four who, I think, have the peculiar magnetic power of governing such an institution as this without corporal punishment; I don't call to mind any female who has this power or capacity; I know of two cases of rather forcible corporal punishment in our Model School during the past six months, which I think was proper, and not out of place; I think a ferule has greater capacities for punishment than a willow switch; I think where a high spirited boy of 13 has been guilty of bad conduct, and is talked seriously with, and reasoned with before whipping, and then whipped without anger, the effect might be good. We had a happy illustration of the good effects of a similar case in our Model School last year; this was the son of a prominent citizen of our county, and his mother afterward addressed a blessing note to the teacher, expressing her satisfaction at the result. I think a proper punishment would be better than expulsion."

The testimony elicited from these professional teachers will be found to be a very fair expression of the opinions of a large majority of the best teachers throughout the country. They find good school government impracticable without occasionally resorting to corporal punishment. This should admonish those who are seeking its immediate and unconditional abolition, that it is necessary to consider the question practically.

A Man-Bear.

EXTRAORDINARY TREATMENT OF A HUMAN BEING.

[From the Boston News, Nov. 22.]

A Portland correspondent says: It is not a little strange that so few people in the vicinity know of the wonderful case of "Jimmy." The keeper of the Westbrook (Me.) Poor-house will tell you that, twenty years ago, and the day following the arrival of Sarah Sands in Portland from Liverpool—the first iron steamship that ever came to the eastern shore from across the water—a strangely destitute and stolid creature was found in a barn in that town, with his limbs so terribly frozen that his feet were almost literally shapeless, and the life nearly gone out of him. He was, of course, taken to the charity farm; and there, in the old, weather-stained buildings, in an outstanding hovel in summer, and in warm quarters in winter, he has lived these twenty years, attracting some curiosity at first, but, for fifteen years, apparently forgotten. After his removal thither his feet were cut off, one at the ankle and one straight down across the instep.

In appearance he was about twenty years old when found, but every attempt to trace out his history failed. Not even a guess was ever made as to his former station in life, his habitation, or even race, except that he came over in the Sands as a stowaway, or was cast adrift here to get him out of the way, as has been done by interested parties many a time before, mayhap. When found on the hay in the barn he was almost totally naked, what clothing he had being torn into shreds, and his whole person bearing tokens half way between lunacy and idiocy. Nor could he speak a word, though every trial was made to make him do so. At times he was very fierce, and is so still, striking savagely at his keeper, who is obliged to watch his moods pretty carefully; but, in no one of his varying moods has he ever articulated a word, and evidently has no power to do so. He pays no attention to visitors except by an occasional bravado, and immediately crouching away.

His hair is black and very thick and coarse, giving him a wild air. In features he is not so repulsive as would be supposed, but all his habits are of the basest and most beastly kind. On the cold and raw October day when I went to see him, he was crouched away in an immense bunk of his hovel, with two large air spaces immediately over him, and nothing on him but a tattered blue drilling shirt or frock, and this the keeper said had not been on him an hour. He had a quilt which was new two or three months before, which was picked and torn to tatters, hanging together by a few shreds, like a torn fleece of wool, or a chafed and broken net. He is thrust out into the yard occasionally and "exercised," but he soon hobbles back to his filthy abode. When the severe weather of winter comes, they take him into a warmer place, but this is intolerable except in the reign of the frosts.

He has little beard except on his upper lip, and this makes a becoming moustache, though never touched for twenty years at least. He eats very voraciously, like a wild animal, and while his limbs are somewhat cramped and withered, he is apparently strong and healthy. There may be found, possibly, as curious cases as this in some of the charity houses in the land, but when it is remembered that no possible hint can be given of the first half his strange life, it has seemed to me to surpass in interest any case I have seen

FORM OF PROPOSAL, GUARANTEE, AND CERTIFICATE.

Proposal.

The undersigned ——, whose post office address is ——, county of ——, State of ——, proposes to convey the mails of the United States, from July 1, 1870, to June 30, 1874, on route No. —— between —— and ——, under the advertisement of the Postmaster General, dated September 30, 1869, with "celerity, certainty, and security," for the annual sum of —— dollars.

This proposal is made with full knowledge of the distance of the route, the weight of the mail to be carried, and all other particulars in reference to the route and service, and also after careful examination of the laws and instructions attached to the advertisement.

Dated (Signed.)

Guarantee.

The undersigned, residing at ——, State of ——, undertake that if the foregoing bid for carrying the mail on route No. —— be accepted by the Postmaster General, the bidder shall, prior to the 1st day of July, 1870, enter into the required obligation or contract to perform the service proposed, with good and sufficient sureties.

This we do, understanding distinctly the obligations and liabilities assumed by guarantors under the 27th section of the act of Congress of July 2, 1836.

Dated (Signed by two guarantors.)

Certificate.

The undersigned, postmaster at ——, State of ——, certifies, under his oath of office, that he is acquainted with the above guarantors, and knows them to be men of property, and able to make good their guarantee.

Dated (Signed.)

Cal., Oregon, and Wash. — 4

INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS AND POSTMASTERS;

Containing also conditions to be incorporated in the contracts to the extent the Department may deem proper.

1. Seven minutes are allowed to each intermediate office, when not otherwise specified, for assorting the mails, but on railroad and steamboat routes there is to be no more delay than is sufficient for an exchange of the mail pouches.

2. On railroad and steamboat lines, and other routes where the mode of conveyance admits of it, the special agents of the Post Office Department, also post office blanks, mail bags, locks and keys, are to be conveyed without extra charge.

3. On railroad and steamboat lines the route agents of the Department, also the British and Canada mails, when offered, and the agents accompanying them, are conveyed without charge; and for the use of the United States agents a commodious car, or part of a car, properly lighted, warmed, and furnished, and adapted to the convenient separation and due security of the mails, is to be provided by the contractor, under the direction of the Department.

Railroad and steamboat companies are required to take the mail from, and deliver it into, the postoffices at the beginning and end of their routes and to and from all offices not more than eighty rods from a station or landing. Proposals may be submitted by the companies for the performance of all other side services—that is, for offices over eighty rods from a station or landing.

There will be "way bills" prepared by postmasters, or other agents of the Department, to accompany the mails conveyed on railroads and steamers, specifying the number and destination of the several bags. On other principal routes, likewise, receipts will be required and way bills forwarded; the latter to be examined by the several postmasters, to insure regularity in the delivery of mails.

4. No pay will be made for trips not performed; and for each of such omissions, not satisfactorily explained, three times the pay of the trip will be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connection with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. For repeated delinquencies of the kind herein specified, enlarged penalties, proportioned to the nature thereof, and the importance of the mail, may be made.

5. For leaving behind or throwing off the mails, or any portion of them, for the admission of passengers, or for being concerned in setting up or running an express conveying intelligence in advance of the mail, a quarter's pay may be deducted.

6. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be promptly and satisfactorily explained by certificates of postmasters or the affidavits of other credible persons, for failing to arrive in contract time; for neglecting to take the mail from, or deliver it into a postoffice; for suffering it to be wet, injured, destroyed, robbed or lost; and for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running a coach, car, or steamboat on a route.

7. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for repeated failures to run agreeably to contract; for violating the post office laws, or disobeying the instructions of the Department; for refusing to discharge a carrier when required by the Department to do so; for running an express as aforesaid, or for transporting persons or packages conveying mailable matter out of the mail.

8. The Postmaster General may order an increase of service on a route by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may change schedules of departures and arrivals in all cases, and particularly to make them conform to connections with railroads, without increase of pay, provided the running time be not abridged. The Postmaster General may also order an increase of speed, allowing, within the restrictions of the law, a pro rata increase of pay for the additional stock or carriers, if any. The contractor may, however, in the case of increase of speed, relinquish the contract, by giving prompt notice to the Department that he prefers doing so to carrying the order into effect. The Postmaster General may also curtail or discontinue the service, in whole or in part, in order to place on the route superior service, or whenever the public interests, in his judgment, shall require such discontinuance or curtailment for any other cause; he allowing as full indemnity to the contractor one month's extra pay on the amount of service dispensed with, and a pro rata compensation for the amount of service retained and continued.

9. Payments will be made by collections from, or drafts on, postmasters, or otherwise, after the expiration of each quarter—say in November, February, May, and August.

10. The distances are given according to the best information, but no increased pay will be allowed should they be greater than advertised, if the points to be supplied are correctly stated. Bidders must inform themselves on these points, and also in reference to the weight of the mail, the condition of roads, hills, streams, &c., and all toll bridges, turnpikes, ferries, or obstructions of any kind by which expense may be incurred. No claim for additional pay based on such grounds can be considered; nor for alleged mistakes or misapprehension as to the degree of service; nor for bridges destroyed, ferries discontinued, or other obstructions increasing distance or expense, occurring during the contract term. Offices established after this advertisement is issued, and also during the contract term, are to be visited without extra pay, if the distance be not increased.

11. Bids must be sent to the Department by the day and hour named (3 p. m. March 1, 1870), and bids received after that time will not be considered in competition with a bid of reasonable amount received in time. Neither can bids be considered which are without the guarantee required by law and a certificate of the sufficiency of the guarantors.

12. Bidders should, in all cases, first propose for service strictly according to the advertisement, and then, if they desire, separately for different service; and if the regular bid be the lowest offered for the advertised service, the other propositions may be considered.

13. There should be but one route bid for in a proposal. Consolidated or combination bids ("proposing one sum for two or more routes") cannot be entertained, and will not be considered.

14. The route, the service, the yearly pay, the name and residence of the bidder (that is, his usual post office address), and the name of each member of a firm, where a company offers, should be distinctly stated.

15. Bidders are requested to use, as far as practicable, the printed proposals furnished by the Department, to write out in full the sum of their bids, and to retain copies of them.

Altered bids should not be submitted; nor should a bid once submitted be withdrawn. No withdrawal of a bid or guarantee will be allowed unless the withdrawal is dated and received before the day of the last opening of proposals.

Each bid must be guaranteed by two responsible persons. The bid and guarantee should be signed plainly with the full name of each person.

The Department reserves the right to reject any bid which may be deemed extravagant, and also to disregard the bids of failing contractors and bidders. (Act of July 2, 1836, section 24.)

16. The bid should be sealed, superscribed, "Mail Proposals, State of Oregon," —— and addressed "Second Assistant Postmaster General, Contract Office," and sent by mail, not by or to an agent; and postmasters will not receive proposals for any kind of their particular delivery.

17. The contracts are to be executed and returned to the Department on or before the 1st day of July, 1870, but the service must be commenced on that day, or on the day next thereafter, whether the contracts be executed or not.

18. [illegible] section of an act of Congress [illegible] contracts [illegible] the contractors, and subcontractors [illegible] posted to perform the service accepted to them the whole [illegible] the contract.

19. Postmasters at offices on or near railroads, [illegible] other eighty rods from a station, will, [illegible] of March next, report their [illegible] to the nearest station, to enable the [illegible] to decide [illegible] messenger supply from the [illegible].

20. Section [illegible] of an act of Congress, March [illegible], 1845, provides that contracts for the [illegible] shall be let, "in every case, [illegible] to the lowest bidder tendering sufficient guarantees [illegible] performance, without other reference to the [illegible] conveyance than may be necessary to provide for the due celerity, certainty and security of such [illegible]." [illegible] under this law bids that propose to [illegible] mode with "celerity, certainty and security," [illegible] considered to be the only legal bids, and [illegible] providing for the entire mail however large, [illegible] whatever may be the mode of conveyance [illegible] necessary to secure celerity, certainty and security, [illegible] conveyance. Such bids and no others are considered.

21. A modification of a bid in any of its essential terms is tantamount to a new bid, and cannot be received so as to interfere with regular competition, after the last hour set for receiving bids, the guarantee and certificate, is the modifying a previous bid.

21. Postmasters are to be careful not to certify the sufficiency of guarantors or sureties, without knowing that they are persons of sufficient responsibility; and all certificates of their sufficiency by postmasters must be made under oath of office, subjecting them to immediate removal. And the guarantors and sureties are liable for all that may fail that on a failure to enter into or perform the contract for the service proposed for in the bid, the guarantors will be legal liability and will be enforced against them.

22. Present contractors, and persons known at the Department must, equally with others, procure guarantors and certificates of their sufficiency substantially in the forms above prescribed. The certificates of sufficiency must be signed by a postmaster or by a judge of a court of record. No other will be admitted.

JNO. A. J. CRESWELL,
Postmaster General.
